aluminum house

MANY PEOPLE, perhaps you yourself, already live in houses which are as much "aluminum" as others are "brick" or "stone".

Just look at the amount of aluminum which already is going into Canadian buildings:

Swelling and Siding — Last year alone about 100 Canadian librarians shipped thousands of tons of unwanted but useable books and exterior walls.

Windows—Today a score of Canadian companies are making aluminum windows and doors which have unique advantages: they never warp, crack, shrink or swell, and never need painting.

Insulation: Aluminum has outstanding insulating properties. Already more than 100 million garages adopt it to keep homes warm in winter, cool in summer.

Gutter, Flashing, Nails, Architectural Hardware — Because aluminum is different (and better) than steel, choose all Canadian-made products for use in a modern interior. All sorts of items for use outside and inside the house.

Ask your architect or contractor about aluminum for building. He knows the story of Alcoa's continuing research into its uses. So he can tell you about its overall advantages and how you can profit from them when building or remodeling.

In the glare of an adoring but demanding publicity the Windows live on a pedestal where their people want them.

The Family in the Palace

By EVA-LIS WUORHO

Why Aluminum?

Aluminum is becoming more and more popular for use in home building because...

...it does not rust...is practically indestructible.
Therefore maintenance costs stay low.

... it is light and easy to handle, is very strong, needs only occasionally light supports.

...it has an attractive natural feel, and can be painted if desired.

...like other building materials, aluminum can be used in houses of any design.

THE FAMILY who live at the Earlsington Palace in London, England, have probably forgotten how to drink a fine home. All their lives they've been brought and bred.

One daughter decided to go on a strictly private holiday and all photographers triangled over one another to photograph the privacy of it, while the others went into an arena where her two poor bodies were

Another daughter can't stop across the street to see how the painters are getting on at her new house—without half a London-plug machine, crying.

The mother gets a drum from each side her old grandfather every time she goes out shopping as he visits her mother-in-law.

Two thousand people, clinging in loose ranks to their front porch jump up and down, shout excitedly whenever a train arrives or pulls away by a window and is, for a moment, silhouetted

The last bit, of course, can't take a day's sample as holiday from letters addressed, peremptorily, "The King."

They've probably got so used to it by now that they don't feel bad and surprised if people didn't do it, but I wouldn't trade my anonymity for that lifetime appreciation of fame by anybody.

And I feel that this gift at their own primary to their people is one of the biggest sacrifices any family could make.

While the crowd is maddened and near out of hand, finally, gunfire and panic. It is always there. The complete, most personal acts of the Royal Family are discussed and refuted. "I don't suppose there is an ordinary house in England anywhere at least not a rural district, where there isn't at least one person of the Royal Family in the wall and a scripture, full of shillings about them."

Newspapers know that their circulations will take a brutal shock every time they run a layout about the Windows, so they do it at a drop of a hat, for the sake of an engagement or any national day. Now pictures are at least all right.

Would You Live Better In the U.S.?

Morison's made a detailed test to see if our lower prices make up for lower wages. Not quite — by 10%. But we're catching up

By SIDNEY MARGOLIS

Canadians who long away to British Columbia and find a good deal for $2 and a cup of coffee for a nickel are sure the Americans are living much better than we do. It's a natural reaction from Canada with two stores like these in a town that has a third in every three Canadian towns here in the States.

What's right? Can they live better? For a month, only this summer, Morison's started an inch and half between the two countries making no mark and highly detailed comparison of two costs. I dropped the store's account of the price and wage studies. In Hamilton, Ont., and Toronto, N.Y., two metropolitan industrial areas I took two typical families and studied their expenses right down to the last penny for a little of each in a town.

How's that? For the month of April the Canadian family cost of living was $20.00. For the American family cost of living was $22.00. The Canadian family cost of living was $20.00. For the American family cost of living was $22.00.

That's not the whole story, for right now the Canadian is in a good position. In the U.S., with growing unemployment and rising inflation, wages have been falling almost everywhere, and the cost of living is rising. During June Mr. Margolis shopped the groceries and department stores of two middle-sized cities, Hamilton, Ont. (pop. 180,000), and Toronto, N.Y. (pop. 1,250,000), to compare prices of staple articles of equal quality in Canada and the United States. Here are typical samples of his findings.

CITIZEN'S LEAD: The English blame them for their rising up. But the Irish blame them for the state of Ireland as it is today. The English blame them for the state of Ireland as it is today. The English blame them for the state of Ireland as it is today.

It was the end of a long day when I wrote this. I had been thinking about the Irish and the English and the state of Ireland as it is today.

The Irish problem has to be solved. It is not a political problem. It is a human problem. It is a problem of the Irish people and the English people.

But that was in London. What would I find in Dublin? I was very curious to see the Irish people and the English people. I was very curious to see the Irish people and the English people.

Conquest of Quebec, 1949

By the MAN WITH A NOTEBOOK

IN QUEBEC CITY just before the election, a leading Liberal said: "Finally, I think we are going to win in Quebec in 15 years. But I don't expect it, because I know the man in Quebec and the man in Ottawa."

He was wrong about the 15 Liberal years, but that doesn't stop the Liberal from being so right about the Union Movement's future. The election was a personal defeat for Premier Maurice Duplessis, but it was a victory for the Union Movement.

Mr. Duplessis did not appear on Progressive Conservative platforms during the campaign, but that was all he needed. On his 15th birthday, he was elected as the first Premier of the Province of Quebec.

When California's another two-year session begins in 1960 with the tradition of new members in all three Government orders the assembly, perhaps the best news is that California's assembly income tax will be the first to be paid by the state. There may plenty of highly paid jobs and plenty of money to fill them.

Then came the third wave, the power of fear. Strong men from the United States and Japan, and American businessmen came in to take back the oil. Soldiers and secret agents came to drive toward they would return to when and if they could back home to enjoy life as their cramped, death-trapped families on themselves. Americans came to know. It was the end of money.

"There is a strike at a summer station on the quay. What gives it English or dis-English name? This is still too young, it is in the French style, the houses across the street, not here have ever had time to rise themselves down into a solid reality. Possibly all power here is in the English will be a very peaceful, whispering snail with its eye in its foot-dragon. It will be more the English, certainly for the suburban houses and the liberal view."

It's a fact!

THE NAVY's new officer was right to tell that when I joined the Navy I'd get a thorough training in seamanship if I could.

Partly Officers with up to $10,000 a month, with extra allowances, or even on to a commission.

I learned of about modern methods of seamanship, radio and other electronic devices too.

And I would be proud of my uniform.
I am proud, too, of the splendid service to which I belong, and glad to give the best of me to my country, and help build a great future.

He said there was opportunity for advancement.
There is. The Navy will give an ambitious fellow free education to help him seek the advancement ladder to Chief.

Don't put off that moment. Join the Navy. Apply to the Naval Recruiting Office, Royal Canadian Navy, Ottawa, or to your nearest Naval District.

There's room to grow in Canada Unlimited

From the colorful Orient, to England's busy Ports, Canada's ships travel the seas, laden with products of Canadian soil and Canadian craftsmanship. In the short span of 18 years, the value of products exported has increased by one and a half billion dollars. This growth has been great, and it will be greater still. Yes, there's room to grow in Canada Unlimited.
